Dear Midwest Parent Educators:

I am writing to express my support and appreciation for the hundreds of families who have made the commitment to educating their children at home. The responsibility to raise healthy children begins in the home. You have gone a step further and dedicated your time and energy toward raising your children in the safest most loving environment.

I am also proud of the commitment to the high quality of education provided. The network and support provided by the Midwest Parent Educators helps parents ensure that a family will be able to offer children the knowledge and skills necessary for success today.

Thank you for all your hard work,

Senator Sam Brownback
